My 14 month old male rottweiler Hero jumped a 6 ft Kennel and dug out of a yard with a 6 ft stockade fence on Friday afternoon April 20th. He was staying at a friend's house in Prince George's County, Maryland for training.

My friend's neighbor called the police as soon as he saw Hero get out. Hero dug out at the back of the fence and went on the street behind the house. I talked to the policeman Sgt Morris of the Fairmont Heights Police, and he said he stayed with Hero a half hour feeding him potato chips waiting for PG County animal control to arrive. Animal control said that they don't always come unless an animal is contained rather than just loose with the officer. If they are busy they might not show up because when they get there the animal might be gone anyway. When the food was gone Hero left the area. This location was in the Capital Height area (That is Metro Washington, DC)... Near FedEx Field and North East Washington, DC (Deanwood/Kenilworth neighborhoods)

If anyone has any information or has seen Hero please call the numbers listed.

Hero's family misses him so much..
